

OSPREY HILL FARM

ACME, WA

Osprey Hill Farm is nestled between the foothills of the Cascades and the Nooksack River in Western Washington. Farmers Geoff and Anna met and fell in love 23 years ago. At the time, he planned to pursue a career in medicine while she was studying to become a dietician—but the call to farming proved louder and stronger than that of a briefcase or stethoscope. Two decades and three children later, Geoff and Anna are living out their commitment to providing honest, high-quality food on principles of care, respect, and social justice. Their small, organic family farm produces bountiful harvests of juicy heirloom tomatoes and traditional Italian herbs using practices that sustain and improve their land and natural resources.
